ADVERTISER INFORMATION

Oregon’s Bounty magazine

About: Oregon’s Bounty is a full-color magazine published annually by Oregon Farm Bureau. The publication is sent to 67,000+ Farm Bureau member families, comprised of both farmers and non-farmers from all parts of the state. Oregon’s Bounty features the state’s largest and best listing of locations where consumers can purchase agriculture products directly from family farmers and ranchers.

Frequency: Oregon’s Bounty is published once a year, in mid-April. The publication is available year-round at oregonfb.org, as is the Oregon’s Bounty searchable website of farm stands listed in the guide.

Content: The goal of the magazine is to encourage readers to experience Oregon agriculture first-hand, realize the importance it has in their daily lives, and learn about the family farmers and ranchers who raise our food, foliage, and more in Oregon.
The magazine features a listing of about 300 public farm ventures, organized by region and opening date, such as roadside stands, u-pick fields and orchards, on-farm events and festivals, vineyards, CSAs, pumpkin patches, Christmas tree farms, ranches, etc. The operations listed in the guide are owned by Farm Bureau members from every part of the state. There is an accompanying Oregon’s Bounty website that allows the public to search for farms listed in the guide that offer specific products and/or are located in a specific region. Find this at oregonfb.org/oregonsbounty.

Additional content includes a profile of a family farmer or rancher, a “what’s in season” calendar, recipes for seasonal food, updates on Farm Bureau programs, and descriptions of membership benefit discounts. The magazine’s 10.5-inch height by 6-inch width makes it ideal for readers to store in a glove compartment for year-round reference.

Circulation: The magazine is mailed to all 67,000+ Oregon Farm Bureau member families across the state, in both rural and urban areas. The magazine also is distributed at myriad public Farm Bureau events, Oregon Ag Fest in Salem, county/state fairs, farmers markets, and other locations throughout the year. Including this extra distribution, the total readership is closer to 70,000.

Visitors to oregonfb.org can see the magazine, as well as access the Oregon’s Bounty searchable online database of the farms and ranches included in the guide.

Advertiser conditions: Advertisers do not have to be Farm Bureau members. The most products and services are suitable for the magazine, as our readers represent both farm and non-farm families in rural and urban areas. However, because Oregon Farm Bureau has an endorsement agreement with COUNTRY Financial, we cannot accept advertisements from other providers of auto, home, life, and/or farm insurance. Sometimes we also cannot accept advertisements in direct competition with our discount providers. (See list of partners here: http://oregonfb.org/member-discounts-2/)

Rates: The rate for a one-page, full-color ad is $3,000 (net rate received by Oregon Farm Bureau). Incremental-sized ads would be charged accordingly. For example, a 1/2-page ad would be a net rate of $1,500. A 1/4-page ad would be a net rate of $750.

Ad specifications: High-resolution, 300 dpi (or higher) TIFF format is required for digital images. High-quality PDFs or printed ads are also accepted.
